

Policy

Health and Safety Policy

1. Purpose

The Health and Safety at Work Act 2015 \(HSWA\) is New Zealand’s workplace health and safety law. It has been created to ensure that we all work together to reduce our work-related risks and get home safely. SPCA have a Health and Safety Policy Statement that clarifies responsibilities of individuals and the organisation under “The Act”. This Health and Safety Duties Policy document gives clear instructions on how those responsibilities can be met by both SPCA and its’ workers (you).

2. Scope

Applies to all SPCA workplaces and workers.

3. Definitions

This document uses terms adopted by “The Act”. Below are definitions of those terms, which will also identify what term would be used to describe yourself, and/or your role in relation to “The Act”. It is worth noting that all employees and volunteers are considered workers under “The Act” and throughout this document.

- “The Act”: Health and Safety at Work Act 2015 \(HSWA\)
- Worker: An individual who carries out work as an employee, labour hire company worker, apprentice, trainee, outworker, person undertaking a work trial or work experience or a volunteer worker. This applies to everyone at SPCA.
- Officer: An individual in the workplace who is in a position that allows them to exercise significant influence over the management of the business. This applies primarily to the CEO at SPCA.
- PCBU: A person conducting a business or undertaking (in this case, SPCA)
- Notifiable Event: A notifiable event is when any of the following occurs as a result of work:
- a death
 - a notifiable illness or injury – often requiring hospitalisation
 - a notifiable incident – where people’s health and safety is seriously threatened or endangered as a result of a work situation

4. Legislation

SPCA and its' workers must comply with "The Act", regulations, codes of practice and industry standards. The relevant sections of "The Act" are detailed below.

4.1 Under Section 36, the duty of a PCBU (SPCA) is as follows, and is as far as is reasonably practicable:

- ensuring the health and safety of workers, and others in the workplace
- providing and maintaining a work environment that is without risks to health and safety
- providing and maintaining safe plant and structures
- providing and maintaining safe systems of work
- ensuring the safe use, handling and storage of plant, structures and substances
- providing adequate facilities for the welfare at work of workers in carrying out work for the business or undertaking, including ensuring access to those facilities
- providing any information, training, instruction, or supervision that is necessary to protect all persons from risks to their health and safety arising from work carried out as part of the conduct of the business or undertaking
- monitoring the health of workers and the conditions at the workplace for the purpose of preventing injury or illness of workers arising from the conduct of the business or undertaking.

Individual responsibility is more important under the current Health and Safety at Work Act than ever before, and as such you must be aware of your responsibilities as set out below.

4.2 Under Section 44, the duty of an Officer (CEO) is as follows:

- ensuring the PCBU exercises due diligence to ensure that the PCBU complies with their duties and obligations. In order to exercise due diligence, an officer must:
 - acquire, and keep up to date, knowledge of work health and safety matters; and
 - gain an understanding of the nature of the operations and the risks associated with those operations; and
 - ensure that the PCBU has:
 - appropriate resources and processes to eliminate or minimise risks
 - appropriate processes for receiving and considering information regarding incidents, hazards, and risks and for responding in a timely way to that information; and
 - processes for complying with any duty or obligation of the PCBU under this Act.

4.3 Under Section 45, the duty of a Worker (All employees and volunteers) is as follows;

- take reasonable care for his or her own health and safety; and
- take reasonable care that his or her acts or omissions do not adversely affect the health and safety of other persons; and
- comply, as far as the worker is reasonably able, with any reasonable instruction that is given by the PCBU to allow the PCBU to comply with this Act or regulations; and
- co-operate with any reasonable policy or procedure of the PCBU relating to health or safety at the workplace that has been notified to workers.
